Dear Prof. Zagorodny,

We wish to share our sorrow and compassion for the current, deplorable invasion of your country by Russian troops, commanded by Putin. We are following your situation closely and recognize that Russia's military actions severely violate International Law. As a result, we hold strong emotions of resentment and indignation toward the Russian government for their cruel and inhumane attacks. Simultaneously, we are extremely concerned about the negative and potentially catastrophic impact to global societies and world peace.

In this letter, we would like to demonstrate our sincere solidarity with you and all Ukrainians. We know Ukraine very well following several trips to the beautiful city of Kiev and Kharkov to visit Kharkov Institute of Physics and Technology. As a partial demonstration of our solidarity and support, we have sent a donation to the Embassy of Ukraine. Please let us know any additional actions we can take to show our care and support. In both Japan and Sweden, there is a huge wave of support for Ukraine in the hopes that we can help you, protect your country and win the war.

Please send our best regards and message of support to our Ukrainian friends and colleagues.

Sincerely Yours,

Atsuo Iiyoshi
